jasper report integration on spring boot Page 2 jasper report integration on spring boot A demo for using jasper within a Spring Boot App I made for a Jasper session. This depicts integration of jasper reports within a spring boot app . To run do mvn spring-boot:run Mostly uses concept of JasperReportsViewResolver as defined here [Check the answer with the tick there @] As per Spring 5 spring-projects/spring-framework#17884 JasperReportsViewResolver has been deprecated hence updating code to use jasper directly .Will add an example soon . The jasper endpoints shall be like reportname}?format={format}&id={id} (id param are optional,you can add ur custom report params there) eg. Cheers! Gaurav Page 2 Welcome readers, in this tutorial, we will show how to use JasperReports with spring boot framework.1. IntroductionSpring boot is a module that provides rapid application development feature to the spring framework including auto-configuration, standalone-code, and production-ready codeIt creates applications that are packaged as jar and are directly started using embedded servlet container (such as Tomcat, Jetty or Undertow). Thus, no need to deploy the war filesIt simplifies the maven configuration by providing the starter template and helps to resolve the dependency conflicts. It automatically identifies the required dependencies and imports them in the applicationIt helps in removing the boilerplate code, extra annotations, and xml configurationsIt provides a powerful batch processing and manages the rest endpointsIt provides an efficient jpa-starter library to effectively connect the application with the relational databasesIt offers a Microservice architecture and cloud configuration that manages all the application related configuration properties in a centralized manner.1.1 JasperReportsjasperReports is an open-source reporting library. It is used to prepare reports in various formats such as PDF, HTML, XLS or CSV's. This library creates page-oriented ready-to-print documents in a simple manner. The following flow chart illustrates the creation of reports.Fig. 1: Report Creation FlowchartIn this tutorial, we will create a spring boot application that loads the sample employee data and creates a pdf report using the jasper-report library. To follow this concept, let us open the eclipse ide and implement this tutorial. But before going any further I'm assuming that readers are aware of the concepts of creating and running a basic spring boot application.2. JasperReports with Spring BootHere is a systematic guide for implementing this tutorial.2.1 Tools UsedWe are using Eclipse Kepler SR2, JDK 8, and Maven.2.2 Project StructureIn case you're confused about where you should create the corresponding files or folder, let us review the project structure of the spring boot application.Fig. 2: Project structureLet us start building the application!3. Creating a Springboot applicationBelow are the steps involved in developing the application.3.1 Maven DependencyHere, we specify the dependency for the spring boot, free marker, and jasper-reports. Maven will automatically resolve the other dependencies. The updated file will have the following code.pom.xml0102030405060708091011121314151617181920212223242526272829303132333435363738394041424344454647484950 Java Application.Fig. 3: Run the Application5. Project DemoDevelopers can hit the below URL that will open the index of the application. On the index page, the application has the 'Generated Pdf' button that will generate the employee report as shown in the below figure. . 4: Employee ReportThat is all for this tutorial and I hope the article served you whatever you were looking for. Happy Learning and do not forget to share!6. ConclusionIn this section, developers learned how to use JasperReports with a spring boot application. Developers can download the sample application as an Eclipse project in the Downloads section.7. Download the Eclipse ProjectThis was an example of using JasperReports with a Spring boot application.
